FOR EQUITABLE RELIEF.

Attorney Elijah Cutright filed a petition in Common Pleas court to-day for Oney Watters against Elizabeth Watters, in which the plaintiff asks for equitable relief. The petition states that the plaintiff married the defendant in 1857 and that in the past few years she had been continually finding fault and nagging at him until he could stand it no longer, and he finally left her. He claims that he is now old and crippled and unable to earn his own living, and that at the present he only owns about $25 worth of property, although he, while he was able to make money, bought property valued at $2,000, which his wife, by continually nagging at him, had deeded to their children, so that she would receive $30 a month while she lived.

The petition claims that if the plaintiff had a few acres of land he could raise truck and in that way make a living, but if this was not granted he would become a charge of the county and would have to be removed to the infirmary.

He therefore asks that part of his real estate be set aside for him and he be granted what other equitable relief is necessary.
